THE GREAT CYCLONE

Results in Half a Dozen Deaths and Much Property Damage.

LOSS NEARLY A MILLION DOLLARS.

Destructive Work of the Storm at the State Insane Asylum and the Penitentiary—Many Miraculous Escapes—The Death of Dr. Ingate.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Oct. 4.—The disastrous effects of the cyclone that visited this city Tuesday night were not fully realized until morning From the moment that it struck until daybreak the city was enveloped in darkness. The streets were filled with bricks, mortar and debris of ruined buildings and an inextricable mass of telegraph, telephone, electric light and trolley wires, making pedestrianism difficult.

The office of the weather bureau lay in the storm's path, and its instruments were swept away, so that no record of the storm could be obtained, although marks of its destruction have been reported from Lonoke, twenty-eight miles east of here. Its course was almost directly east, the first disastrous effects being at the insane asylum, situated on a hilltop three miles west of the city, and where its destructiveness was appalling, killing Dr. J. T. Ingate, second assistant physician, and injuring eleven inmates.

Dr Ingate's body was found at 11:15 a m., in the vestibule of the front entrance to the main building, where he fell under the debris of the front tower. He was in a kneeling position, facing the front door. The supposition is that he had started to the front of the building when the crash from above alarmed him, and before he could return to the office the mass of brick and timber fell, bringing him with it. Two patients were also killed.

From the asylum, in a direction almost due north, the funnel shaped cloud ploughed its way through two miles of the resident portion and the business part of the city, a distance of nearly four miles, before emerging from the city limits, entailing a loss in proportion which will reach $1,000,000, the loss of four human lives and the injury of nearly forty people, some probable fatally.

All day yesterday Main, Markham and Second streets were filled with thousands of people—men, women and children—viewing the ruin wrought by the cyclone where hundreds of workmen were busily engaged in removing the debris from the streets and sidewalks, repairing the damage to buildings and clearing telegraph, telephone and electric wires for service. By dark the streets were passable and the electric car and electric light service was resumed.

Buck Neely, an attache of the asylum, went out into the hall on the third floor to extinguish the lights just as the wind and electric current struck the rear tower The mass crashed through the upper floors, carrying away the floor within six feet of him and left him standing in the dark terrified, uncertain which way to move.

Just before the storm reached its height Mrs Robertson, wife of the superintendent, was in the room of her mother, Mrs Reed, just adjoining, when the roof over her apartments fell in, cleaning away the upper floors, including the floor of her own rooms, filling the first floor with bricks, timber and mortar. Miss Fitzpatrick, a nurse, was in her own room on the second floor, above Mrs. Robertson's. When she felt the walls giving way and the floors moving under her she made a leap for the hall door and fell across the doorway as the floor went down beneath her. She then climbed into the hall

The patients confined in the wards demolished by the cyclone were removed immediately after the walls fell and taken to the chapel. Contrary to the general idea of their condition in such an exciting state of affairs, the attendants had no trouble in escorting them to safe quarters.

The main building, the south half of which was destroyed, was erected twelve years ago at a cost to the state of $300,000, and is one of the most beautiful structures of the kind in the United States. Eleven patients were hurt in the crush of the asylum. Several other patients are still unaccounted for.

The storm did great damage at the state penitentiary. The loss is estimated to aggregate $30,000. The cell building was completely torn away and carried outside the walls. The windows were all broken out. But little damage was done to the interior. Many of the convicts were in their cells at the time, and were not hurt. The new workhouse, chapel and kitchen are badly wrecked. In was in this building the only death occurred. J. F. Griffith, a white man, sent up from Clay county for incest, was descending the stairway from the third story when the wall caved in and buried him in the debris.

Jackson Boyd, colored, and his 3-year-old child, living in a small cottage on East Second street, were eating supper when the storm came. Boyd rushed to the front of the house to close the door. The child screamed and he ran back and took it in his arms. It was the last act of his life, for at that moment the building fell in on them. When taken from the ruins the child was clasped in its father's arms. Both were dead.

Six persons are known to have been killed and others are missing, probably buried in the debris.

The property losses from the storm will aggregate nearly $1,000,000.

The calamity has fallen very heavily on Little Rock, as but one tornado insurance policy has been reported, and that on a dwelling, the loss to which does not exceed $200 But five tornado policies, up to hour of cyclone, were in force in the city, it being supposed that this city was exempt from such visitations, it being the first in the memory of the oldest inhabitants.

So great is the demand for labor in repairing damage that St. Louis and Memphis have been telegraphed to for assistance. In the meantime stocks are being removed to unoccupied available stores until repairs can be completed or new structures put up. Street car and electric light service will not be permitted during the day until linemen have restored the various lines to their normal condition, being allowed to run only at night, thus removing the danger to human life by contact with live wires.

Beyond the unroofing of about 200 buildings, the damage to buildings is confined to the insane asylum, state penitentiary, the Martin block, opposite the custom house, and the large wholesale grocery house of C. F. Baucum, while scarcely a mercantile establishment in the storm area is not a sufferer by water, many stocks being almost a total loss from the deluge.

Sir Joseph Vindicated.

LONDON, Oct. 4.—Sir Joseph Renals, the senior alderman representing the Aldergate ward, was yesterday finally elected lord mayor of London by the aldermen of the city. Alderman Renals was entitled to the chief magistracy of the old city of London by reason of seniority of service in the board of aldermen, but several of his predecessors were interested in promoting realty and other schemes of a speculative character that have forced some of their promoters into exile and into prison. It was hinted that Renals was indirectly interested in some of these bubbles, and at first his brethren refused to vote him the honor of the mayoralty.

Sandbagged by a Brutal Negro.

CAMDEN, N. J., Sept. 4.—While returning home from her work in Croft & Son's mill last evening May Ottinger, a young woman, was sandbagged by a negro, who attempted to outrage her. The assault was made in a lonely street, bordered by swamps. The girl's screams attracted a number of men and the negro was frightened off before he accomplished his purpose. A search party was immediately organized, and, armed with pistols and ropes, they scoured the neighborhood, but without success. Miss Ottinger is prostrated at her home.

Careless Motorman Committed.

PITTSBURG, Oct. 4.—A coroner's jury returned two verdicts in the case of the killing of Mrs W. L. Jones, a prominent society woman, by a Duquesne traction car. Two of the jurors returned a verdict of accidental death, while the other four found Motorman Cornman guilty of criminal negligence, censured the company for the high rate of speed at which its cars are run and suggested that the city councils take action to remedy the evil. The coroner accepted the latter verdict and committed the motorman to jail.

The Pugilistic Game of Bluff.

BOSTON, Oct 4.—William A. Brady, Champion James Corbett's manager, last night telegraphed the NEW YORK stakeholder to transfer the $1,000 deposited with him in behalf of Steve O'Donnell to Corbett's name to cover the deposit made by Fitzsimmons for a fight with the champion. This amount, with $500 which was deposited with David W. Blanchard, of this city, this morning, makes up the $1,000 mentioned by Corbett in his ultimatum issued Tuesday night.

Doing Relieved from Duty.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—By a strange coincidence Charles H. Doing, who was a jail guard fourteen years ago, and who permitted Captain H. W. Howgate to escape, was reappointed to his old position last Saturday, a few days after Howgate's recapture in New York. Yesterday the judges of the court conferred with Warden Leonard, of the jail, and as a result Doing was relieved from duty.

Will Resume at Last Year's Scale.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 4.—At the Windsor hotel, in this city, there was a meeting of the committee of the flint grinders and manufacturers' wage committees, and a settlement was effected. Last year's scale was agreed upon. President Smith left for Pittsburg immediately after the conference. Philadelphia, New Jersey and Baltimore firms were represented in the manufacturers' committee.

The Whipping Post for Child Beaters.

ALBANY, Oct. 4.—Commodore Elbridge T. Gerry addressed the final session of the convention of the humane societies yesterday in favor of introducing the whipping post into the state of New York, to be used especially in the punishment of those who are cruel to children. Dr. Thomas A Hendricks, of Rochester, a Catholic priest, spoke in the same line.

Admiral Maigret in Washington.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—Admiral Maigret, of the French navy, is in town, the guest of Ambassador Patenotre, of France. The admiral is much interested in American institutions, particularly the progress of our new navy, and he shares in the approval given by continental authorities of Captain Mahan's service to naval science.

AFTER ALGER'S THOUSANDS

Two Alleged Widows Claim a Share of His Estate.

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—A contest over the will of Cyrus D Alger has been entered by two women claiming to be his widows. He was the son of David B Alger, a wealthy stock operator, and leaves about $100,000 Marguerite Alger, one of these alleged widows, he married a number of years ago, but he got a divorce from her in South Dakota, which she claims is invalid. He made his will March 4, 1891, which gives all his property to his three brothers and his sister About two years after making this will he married, it is declared, Agnes D Alger, who is also claiming to be his widow

Marguerite in her objections says that he was not of sound mind when he made the will. Agnes states that she does not know if he was unduly influenced to make this will, but says she believes there is another will, as he promised to provide for her.

A Monster Gas Well.

WILEYVILLE, W Va., Oct 4.—The gas well on Indiana creek, ten miles from there, in Tyler county, has broken forth, and the roar of the escaping gas can be heard miles away The well belongs to the Victor Oil company, and was drilled into the sand on Sept 6. The pressure was sufficient to throw the tools, weighing 4,000 pounds, out of the derrick, wrecking that structure In about a week it subsided, but, now has broken out with increased power Enough gas is being wasted daily, it is estimated, to light and heat a city of 100,000 population.

Smith Defeats Farrell.

DENVER, Oct. 4.—About 250 sporting men left this city yesterday afternoon on a special train on the Denver and Gulf road to witness the mill between Denver Ed Smith and Lawrence Farrell for a purse of $5,000 about twenty miles from the city. The ring was pitched on the open prairie, in the same spot where Smith defeated Farrell eight years ago. Smith weighed 205 pounds and Farrell 171 pounds. Smith was given the fight on a foul in the sixth round. Farrell was not in the fight from the first, as he was greatly overmatched.

A Bomb in an Elevator.

ELYRIA, O, Oct 4.—Great excitement was caused here by the discovery of a powerful nitro-glycerine and dynamite bomb being placed in the Lake Shore and Michigan Central elevator. A workman found the bomb, with fuse attached, hidden in the building It contained sufficient nitro-glycerine and dynamite to equal a hundred pounds of the most powerful giant powder If the bomb had exploded it would have wrecked the elevator and several large buildings adjoining.

Baltimore Baseballists Angry.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 4.—The feeling among the local baseball people against the New Yorkers in the controversy over the Temple cup series grows more bitter. The Baltimores declare emphatically that the Giants must either play for one-half the gate receipts or the winning club take everything Pres-ident Young, of the National League, declares that the games must be played as originally provided for or not at all—that is a 65 and 35 per cent. of distribution of receipts

Nine Murdered by Robbers.

BERLIN, Oct 4.—A dispatch received here from Vilna, Russia, tells of an outrage upon the part of a number of robbers A rich farmer resided in the town of Gibani-zki, near Vilna, with his wife, three children and four servants. The robbers attacked the house, killed him, his wife, children and servants, completely looted the house and escaped with their booty.

Russell Not a Gubernatroial Candidate.

BOSTON, Oct. 4.—The Traveller says that John E Russell has refused to be the Democratic candidate for governor of this state; that he will not only refuse the nomination if tendered him at the state convention, but be will decline to take any part at the gathering. Mr. Russell says his health is too poor for the arduous duties of the campaign.

Accused Officers Acquitted.

DUBLIN, Oct. 4.—The trial of Captain Armstrong and Lieutenants Moora, Gibson and Saunders, of the Birr garrison, on charges of assault made by Kathleen O'Donnell and Annie Desmond, two servant girls attached to the garrison, ended in the acquittal of the defendants.

Not a Presidential Candidate.

CINCINNATI, Oct 4.—Senator John Sherman, accompanied by his private secretary, arrived in Cincinnati from Lancaster, O. His visit is entirely on private business. In an interview he said: "I am not a candidate for the presidency: in fact, I am not a candidate for anything."

A Horrible Railroad Accident

It Cured Mother and Daughter.

BETHANY, N. Y., June 3, 1885.—"Since my wife commenced the use of Gilmore's wine she has steadily improved, until now her health is restored. She says she cannot keep house without this wine. It also cured my daughter, who was troubled with suppression of the menses. She had run over ten weeks and took only one bottle before she was cured."—Philip G. Burke. All druggists sell Gilmore's Aromatic Wine at $1 per bottle.

PECULIAR METHODS.

Interesting Testimony in New York's Police Investigation.

POWER OF THE GERRY SOCIETY.

Counsel Goff Declares That It Is Too Arbitrary, and Should be Curtailed. Evidence That the Uniformed Highwaymen Are Still Demanding Tribute.

NEW YORK, Oct 4.—Mr. Moss, attorney for the Parkhurst society, opened yesterday's proceedings before the Lexow investigation committee by placing in evidence a chattel mortgage given by David Kroman to David Kroman. The first David has already testified before the committee that he gave the mortgage to pay the police for protection.

Policeman Ambrose W. Hussey, formerly a ward detective, was the first witness of any interest. Mrs. Urchitell, who some time ago appeared before the committee, had testified that an officer had walked her around the streets all one night and then took down her stockings to search for money.

The prosecution tried to show that Hussey was the officer Hussey testified that a stool pigeon named Block had told him that a policeman named Charles A. Place was the man who took the money.

Officer Place took the stand and swore he never saw the woman or took money from her.

The woman then took the stand. She testified that her children were torn from her by a policeman and placed in an orphan asylum. She was scourged from pillar to post by the police and by Max Hochstem, an east side politician who is at present under indictment for assaulting a reporter. Hpchstem at first, under the guise of a friend, advised her to pay the police, and later insulted and hounded her. Mrs. Urchitiel refused to pay $50 tribute to the police for keeping a small cigar store. The woman, who is a Russian, was soon afterwards arrested on a charge of keeping a disorderly house and kept in jail many months.

Senator Bradley was so moved by the story of apparent injustice that he instructed Mr. Moss to secure the release of the children.

The woman had been looking around the court room. Her eyes lighted on Hussey. She recognized the author of her troubles instantly, and became intensely agitated. She pointed dramatically at the officer, and cried in English, of which she speaks but a little, "That's him! That's him!" For a moment she seemed as if she would spring at the officer.

Counsel Goff said that he would like to call the attention of the committee to an abuse which should be remedied on their return to Albany Too much power, he declared, was vested in the Gerry society. Children could be torn from their parents, and there was no way of getting them back if the society desired otherwise. While Mr. Gerry's objects were humane his methods were too arbitrary.

Elias Mandel testified that in 1893 he kept a restaurant at 191 Delancey street. Hussey came to him and demanded $100 for protection for gambling. Then he was arrested by Hussey on a false charge, later being subjected to much persecution.

Officer Hussey was at this point called upon to tell the committee if he had not threatened to blow out the brains of Narbeth Peffer, a detective employed by the committee, during an altercation a few moments before.

H. H. Alexander, a stenographer, who had been sitting next to the policeman and Peffer, swore he heard Hussey say, "I'll kill you," and others gave similar evidence.

Peffer also told his story. In the course of his work as a committee detective he had incurred the enmity of Hussey. Hussey accused him in court of being the author of all his trouble. After calling him a foul name the policeman threatened to blow his brains out. Hussey was again called to the bar and again denied the charge.

"We will look further into this," said Mr Goff as Hussey stepped from the stand

Morris Masch, a cloak manufacturer, testified that clothing was stolen from his store about Christmas of last year Officers Hussey and Shelvey assisted in finding the thief, but, although they made arrests and had a strong case when it came up in the Essex Market court, Masch was not allowed to call his witnesses and the thieves were discharged. Their "pull" had saved them from being sent to jail.

Mrs. Annie Treyursch told a significant story. The woman supports her family by selling newspapers on a stand at the corner of East Broadway and Rutgers street. She has the permission of the owner of the premises in front of which the stand is located. This morning Policeman Lynch asked the women if she paid rent. She answered in the negative, and declining to pay $5 was arrested. She was arraigned in the Essex Market court and discharged.

Jacob Brummer, of 600 East Eighty-third street, testified that he paid Ward Detective Jacob Brummer $5 a month when he owned a saloon at 1613 Avenue B. The last payment was made May 19 last. He also paid Excise Inspector Mat Murphy $10 when the other demanded it

Adolph Forster told a tale which threw some light on the peculiar power wielded by the notorious Max Hochstem Besides being a brute and an intimidator of women he appears in the role of a collector of tribute for the police. Forster testified he paid $10 to him for protection for a coffee house. The business was legitimate, but Hochstem said he must pay up or he would be in trouble. Many other poor east side merchants followed, and told how the ward men had called and sent them to Hochstem, who under threats of persecution collected the last cent they had. He told one poor fellow to "put his wife in hock" to raise money.

Just what putting a wife in pawn consisted of was not developed, but it was understood that Hochstem wanted to drive the woman to a life of shame

James W. Goodwin, a former roundsman of the Fourth precinct, told a sensational story. Sergeant Magan was in the habit of bringing dissolute women in the station house for improper purposes. When Goodwin protested Magan forced him to sign a paper, in which he resigned from the force. Goodwin wrote "under duress" at the bottom of the paper. The sergeant erased these words. Goodwin is now seeking reinstatement and the courts have ordered the police board to try his case.

PROFESSOR SWING DEAD.

The Eminent Chicago Clergyman a Victim of Blood Poisoning.

CHICAGO, Oct. 4.—Professor David Swing died last night of acute blood poisoning, brought on by an attack of jaundice. Every possible restorative was applied in vain, and at ten minutes after 8 o'clock Professor Swing was dead.

Professor Swing was born in Cincinnati Aug. 23, 1830. At the age of 18 the boy entered Miami university, at Oxford, O., graduating in 1852. In 1866 he accepted the pastorate of the Westminster Presbyterian church, of this city, which was later united with the North Presbyterian church, the two forming the Fourth Presbyterian church, one of the wealthiest and most influential institutions of its kind in Chicago.

Shortly after the great Chicago fire of 1871 occurred the most important event in the great minister's career—his trial before the Chicago presbytery on a charge of heresy, preferred by the Rev. Dr. Francis L. Patton, now president of Princeton college. These charges were not sustained, there being sixty-one members in the presbytery, and only thirteen voted against him. But the subsequent feeling was so bitter that Professor Swing brought matters to a close by resigning his pastorate, a large number of his friends going with him and forming the Central church, in which he has labored since with great success.

Mr. Morton's Acceptance.

RHINECLIFFE, N. Y., Oct. 4.—The notification committee of the Republican party in this state called at Mr. Morton's residence yesterday to give their official announcement of nomination to the gentlemen who are selected for the Republican state ticket. Senator Saxton and Judge Albert Haight were with Mr. Morton when the visitors arrived. General Collis, chairman of the nominating committee, delivered the notification addresses Messrs. Morton, Saxton and Haight followed with brief addresses of thanks and acceptance Mr and Mrs. Morton then entertained the guests at luncheon, and Chauncey M Depew kept up a running fire of droll stories in lieu of an oration.

Connecticut's Republican Gains.

HARTFORD, Oct. 4.—Returns from all except two out of sixty-four towns in this state that held local elections on Monday show a Republican gain of twenty-three towns The majorities are not yet complete but indicate a Republican majority sufficient to elect the governor without the election being thrown into the legislature at the November election. Of the towns heard from 206 went Republican, 224 Democratic and 27 were divided. Last year 83 went Republican, 50 Democratic and 29 were divided

McKinley's Western Tour.

OKLAHAMA, I. T., Oct. 4.—Nebraska and even Texas have contributed to the enormous crowds gathered to meet McKinley, whose number is variously estimated at from 20,000 to 30,000 One railroad alone brought in fifty carloads of people. Governor McKinley made two speeches here. A special train on the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific railroad took him to Lincoln, Neb., last night.

Cape May Fisherman Drowned.

CAPE MAY, Oct. 4.—Peter Exstrom, a fisherman, was drowned by the upsetting of his boat as he and his partner, Percy Haldeman, were going over the treacherous Cold Spring bar. The men had got almost through the heavy trough when a huge breaker upset their craft. Exstrom was an expert swimmer, but the heavy under current carried him down in a few minutes.

ENGLAND AND CHINA.

The Cause of the Special British Cabinet Council.

NO CONTROVERSY WITH FRANCE.

The Government Leaders Will Discuss the Propriety of Placing a Larger Force of Soldiers in China to Protect British Interests.

LONDON, Oct. 4.—Inquiries made by the Associated Press correspondent of the foreign office elicited the information that the calling of a cabinet council for this afternoon has no connection whatever with the meeting of the French cabinet on the same day

The relations between Great Britain and France have certainly been strained during the past six months, since the attacks of the French press on the Marquis of Dufferin, the British ambassador at Paris. Numerous colonial questions have also given rise to friction.

Although the government ministers would be glad to seize upon an occasion to discuss these matters, the cabinet would not have been summoned but for the dangerous appearance of the situation in China.

The Marquis of Dufferin is still in the north of Ireland, and he will not return until the end of the week. If the relations with France had been the cause of the summoning of a cabinet council Lord Dufferin would certainly have come to London to consult with Lord Rosebery, the premier.

The Marquis of Ripon, the colonial secretary, held a consultation last evening with various officials connected with affairs in China.

The Indian office has been in communication with the viceroy and the commander-in-chief of the forces in India regarding the time requisite to dispatch troops to China. British Minister O'Connor's dispatches from Pekin indicate that the danger to foreigners in China is considerable. Sir William Robinson, governor of Hong Kong, and Admiral Fremantle, commander of the British fleet, are acting in conjuction with Mr. O'Connor for the protection of British residents. Admiral Fremantle has twenty vessels in his fleet, but many of them are obsolete from a fighting point of view, and are only able to do duty as guardships.

It is stated that China would make no objection to giving British troops a camping ground on the mainland. The British troops now at Hong Kong, about 500 infantry and two batteries of artillery, are quite inadequate to protect the British subjects at the various treaty ports.

The Paris correspondent of The Standard says that he has made inquiries in the proper quarters and that he is in a position to state that whatever urgent communications have been received by the British foreign office, they did not come from France A dispatch from Paris to The Daily News says there is no pending question between France and England grave enough to justify a scare.

Georgia's Democratic Victory.

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct 4.—A lighter vote was polled in the state election of yesterday than was two years ago The Democratic ticket was elected by a majority estimated at 30,000. Atkinson, Democrat, for governor, ran behind his ticket Many old soldiers either scratched him or voted for Hines, Populist. Fulton county, outside of Atlanta, went for the Populist ticket The Democratic ticket elected is as follows: Governor, William Y. Atkinson, secretary of state, Allen D. Chandler; treasurer, Robert U. Hardeman; attorney general, Joseph M. Terrell; comptroller general, William A. Wright; commissioner of agriculture, Robert T Nesbitt. The Populists have made gains in almost every county.

Fitzsimmons Declared the Champion.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct 4.—President Scoll, of the Olympic club, yesterday notified Corbett and Fitzsimmons that the board of directors had formally declared Fitzsimmons champion heavyweight of the world Fitzsimmons was further notified that he must be prepared to defend the title in February next.

Resumed at a Compromise Rate.

TALKS WITH MOTHERS.—No. 3.
HAPPY BABYHOOD.

Every mother wants her baby to thrive, because a healthy child is a happy child. The question of how the baby shall be fed is demanding the attention, as never before, not only of the mothers in the land, but of the entire medical profession also, because it is now to be understood how much the health of a child can be influenced by proper nutrition during the years of babyhood. As the result of this improper feeding of the infant, the vitality of the child is impaired, and he grows up weak and puny. In these days when artificial food is being so generally resorted to, for infants the demand for a substitute for mother's milk has brought out many foods for which great claims are made. Gustav Mellin, an English chemist, was the first to discover and combine the requisite properties necessary for an artificial food, and with his discovery the rational feeding of infants commenced.

Mellin's Food is the only perfect substitute for mother's milk, and it has done more to make babies strong and healthy than anything else that has ever been invented. Mellin's Food possesses all the requisite heat and flesh producing and bone-forming constituents necessary to give a child health, vigor and vitality. Infants are exceedingly fond of it and thrive upon it when nothing else can be retained upon the stomach. If they have been weak, fretful and troublesome they become happy, healthy and active; bright eyes, rosy cheeks, firm muscles and a strong constitution are the inevitable results of using this excellent preparation. Mellin's Food, being highly nutritious and easily digested, is also perfectly adapted to the wants of invalids and convalescents.

THE JAPANESE VICTORIES.

Yamagata Arikomo, an Oriental Von Moltke, Receives Credit For Them.

The series of extraordinary victories gained by the Japanese prove that their army is remarkably well organized or that the Chinese are miserably poor fighters. The Chinese nation seems to be in a sort of dissolving process, the government weak and the people dissatisfied, and therefore lacking in patriotism. Japan, on the other hand, has all the vigor of youth and a newly reorganized nation. Her people are united and enthusiastic and her army disciplined and trained up to the European standard. As Li Hung Chang bears the disgrace in China, so Japan's most honored official is Field Marshal Count Yamagata Arikomo, who won the great victory recently at Ping-Yang.

COUNT YAMAGATA.

It is no exaggeration to call him the Von Moltke of Japan. He is 47 years old, tall for a Japanese and of slender figure. His origin was quite humble, as his father was of a caste which, in Japan's feudal times, could not win high rank. All that is now done away with, and democratic policies prevail. Count Yamagata has been in service or military office since boyhood. His military education was completed in Europe, and before attaining his majority he commanded an army successfully. In 1864, when the government was in a transition state, the shogun, then the ruling power, sent 20,000 men to chastise the feudal lord of the Chosin province, but with only 2,000 men Count Yamagata defeated and scattered the 20,000 before they reached Chosin.

In all the wars of the revolutionary period he took an active part, and after the complete suppression of all rebellions against the new government he was made chief of staff of the Japanese army. In 1890 he was made prime minister, but retired in May, 1891, when the parliamentary system of government was fully introduced. Early in the recent campaign he was sent to command in Korea, where he has shown remarkable ability. Of the four Japanese field marshals he is the only one not of princely birth.

AN AMIABLE HOSTESS.

Mrs. Morton Gained That Reputation In Washington and Paris.

The Mortons of Ellerslie-on-Hudson would be the title of one of New York's most prominent citizens and his family just now if we were only a little more English. As it is, they are credited to Rhinecliff, the station near their beautiful home. It is in politics only that Levi P. Morton outranks his wife, for as one draws nearer to Rhinecliff he hears less of the statesman and a great deal more of Mrs. Morton. When he was vice president, she made his home noted in Washington, and when he was minister to France La Belle Mme. Morton, as the Parisians called her, was one of the social lights of the city. Her beauty and taste in dress, her wit and fluency in the French tongue gave her a social standing no American lady had attained there.

MRS. LEVI P. MORTON.

Her father was William L. Street of Poughkeepsie, and she was married to Mr. Morton in 1873. His first wife died in 1871 without children, but the present Mrs. Morton is blessed with five attractive daughters, ranging in age from 11 to 20. They have been thoroughly taught, especially in languages, their mother being quite a linguist. In Washington they were noted for their general proficiency, and at Ellerslie their studies are continued under a French governess. Especially is their physical welfare looked after. They ride and drive, romp and take prescribed exercises in the open air and are in addition taught domestic duties. Mrs. Morton gives minute attention to household affairs.

Flatterers are prone to exaggerate the attractions of ladies whose husbands are high in office, but Mrs. Morton's beauty was noted before her husband became prominent. She is slightly above the medium height, with a figure of great beauty, and her arms and neck are especially well formed. Her complexion is fair, her eyes blue gray, and her light brown hair shows a silver tint here and there. She owns to 46 years, but her youthful voice and face, without a wrinkle, would indicate less. In Paris her drawing rooms were the common meeting ground of royalists, republicans and imperialists, Catholics, Protestants and free thinkers, and all were pleased with their hostess.

A Curious Amusement.

A curious amusement is being indulged in at present by the inhabitants of Carlsbad. This consists of hunting or catching butterflies by means of a net and the electric light. Nightly, at every electric lamp, are to be seen three or four persons looking out for butterflies, which are attracted by the light. The trade has assumed very large developments, even since last year.

Dollars or Kicks

for women, according to whether they do, or don't do, their washing in a sensible way. If they use Pearline, it means good, hard dollars saved. Pearline is economy. All that ruinous rubbing that makes you buy linens and flannels twice as often as you need to, is spared, to say nothing of your time and labor.

See the troubles that women have to endure with other ways of washing. There's that hard, wearing-out rub, rub, rub, or the danger of ruining things with acids if you try to make it easy. Washing with Pearline is absolutely safe.

Send it Back Peddlers and some unscrupulous grocers will tell you "this is as good as" or "the same as Pearline." IT'S FALSE—Pearline is never peddled, and if your grocer sends you something in place of Pearline, be honest—send it back. 418 JAMES PYLE, New York.

"America's Greatest Men and Women."

AMERICA'S GREATEST MEN AND WOMEN.

MR. WILSON TALKS.

MY Name is Wilson; I do an insurance business on LaSalle street, in Chicago Ill., and I live in Evanston, Ill. Evanston is what was originally a scattering population on a pretty point on Lake Michigan, esteemed years ago far from the city of Chicago, but now one of the varied towns which may go within it by vote of the population.

I am married and have a wife and one child. That child is a boy (I suppose I should feel the same solicitude if it was a girl), and I have a father's natural fancies as to what must be the best thing to give that child the right kind of intelligence, and so divert his course that he may succeed in life. I have studied a great deal upon the subject. My own experience would not be of great value, because I have succeeded only to the limit of the average man and am barely established; still, I own the house and lot upon which I live, and am feeling perfectly safe in meeting the exigencies of the year. I want the boy to take a broader view than I did, to be a bigger man in the world. I have studied how to teach him to do that, and he has done pretty well, as far as the preliminaries go. Now, I have thought over what I should say to him and have sometimes been puzzled. I could not very well tell him what to do. I wanted to tell him what I needed but what I did not learn myself when I was of his age, and what my father did not know how to tell me, or else was not thoughtful enough to do so. I wanted to tell him how to follow the example of those who have succeeded at the present time and under the circumstances which ordinarily affect a young man struggling in this Republic established on this comparatively new world to-day. I wanted to tell him just what he had better do to get along well, and to point out to him what had been done by the people who were successful at the present time.

Of course, the record of the people of any time past would not be of so much value, because circumstances must necessarily have been different when they were alive. I feel confident, though, that if I could learn, some way and somehow, what the people who are so successful to-day have done and how they did it, I could give to my boy such advice as would make his own life at least as far removed from failure as justified by the natural ability he may possess.

I looked around for some authority which I might consult in order to give him the facts most essential with this idea of mine in mind, but I could find none until I discovered that a great publishing firm in Chicago had decided to bring out a book giving the photographs of all the people who are prominent in America to-day. Here was what I wanted. The book, as I have learned, is going to be published in 16 parts, 16 pages to each, with a recent photograph on each page of some active leading American man or woman of to-day, while underneath appears the story of that same person's life—the story telling what that person did, and how the ends attained were eventually accomplished. Here was what I wanted; here was what I needed in various ways; here was what I was certainly seeking in order to obtain the information with which to educate my boy and secure for him that knowledge which will give him a source of thought and make him prominent in the world.

I have the first sheets of this work. It is a graphic story of America's Greatest Men and Women, told in each instance on a single page underneath a photograph of recent date, which conveys to the eye an idea of what that person is. To me the photograph tells even more than the suggestive record beneath; and yet it is odd how in each instance the correct story corresponds with the expression upon the face which is reproduced in the portrait above. I do not know how the series will end. I know very little about this new feature of the newspaper people; I know nothing about the publishers and their expectations, but I do know this: that if the series so begun should be continued to its practical, ordinary good sense end—and I don't care whether that will include 200 or 700 of America's Greatest Men and Women, which is the title of the book—I do know this, that for the ordinary, active and alert business man—I will certainly say far more for the student or the literary man, or the politician or the statesman—for all these I will say it will be simply the most valuable and the most remarkable book produced in modern history. The wonder is that some one has not thought of it before. Yet no one seems to have done so since the days of Plutarch. Plutarch knew something. That shrewd old fellow knew that all who would get out of the drift, all who would accomplish great things, wanted to know every detail of the lives of those who had better luck or more courage or a broader brain than their fellows; but I am no authority on these points. I only know that there is produced a second Plutarch's Lives, that its biographies are shrewd, graphic and curt, and written without bias and without prejudice. I only know that there was a Plutarch—God bless the old fellow—and that there is this modern work.

This is the work I am going to give to my boy. I am going to make him read it thoroughly. The work is announced as consisting of 16 Parts, with 16 pages and 16 photographs in each part, and when bound, the whole series will make a great volume of 256 pages, the like of which has never been equaled. It is the story of the personal character of the men and women who are making the nation's history at this particular time. What a work this is! Do you imagine that I would miss it for my boy, or, incidentally, for myself?

LITERATURE THE FAD.

An "Intellectual Winter" Contemplated by Leaders of New York's Four Hundred.

New York's swell society, which has been wont to divert itself with the gambols of a Carmencita and the prestidigitations of a Herrmann, has found a new fad and is going in for what it calls an "intellectual winter." The pace was set by Mrs. Paran Stevens, the rich, original and possibly eccentric lady jocosely spoken of as "society's godmother," and by Mrs. Jordan L. Mott, both inspired by Lady Randolph Churchill. The last two are cousins, and when Lady Churchill was merely Miss Jennie Jerome she exercised a great influence over her family, an influence now greatly increased, of course. In conjunction with Lady Lester-Kaye she quite transformed one section of London society, and now New York swelldom is to have its turn.

There is to be no frivolity. All amusements are to have an intellectual cast. There will be readings from their own works by great authors; lectures on great topics, chiefly historical; discourses on the philosophy of music and such. Possibly, if swelldom can stand it, there will be dippings into the occult, soarings after the infinite and divings after the unfathomable, with side remarks on the persistence of force and the mode of immortality. All these things, however, will be made as attractive as possible, especially the historic essays, for Froude is Mrs. Stevens' ideal, and not Carlyle.

MRS. PARAN STEVENS.

Mrs. Jordan L. Mott has long been known in society as an ardent admirer of Napoleon, and her collection of souvenirs of the first empire is large and valuable. Grave historians are to enlighten her guests on that era, and it is said she has employed several young writers to make special studies of certain epochs in the great warrior's career. John Jacob Astor will open his magnificent residence as soon as it is completed to literary men of every degree of eminence. Two novelists, both popular, though in different ways, will be asked to read in several saloons—namely, Marion Crawford and A. Conan Doyle. Mrs. Andrews has secured a great French writer for her parlors. Other ladies have taken specialties in art, and these are but a few of many intellectual diversions prepared for the winter.

LIVED IN A CHURCH.

Ex-Senator Van Wyck Found an Odd Dwelling Place In Washington.

Ex-Senator Charles H. Van Wyck is known to the country as an active, independent sort of politician who was Republican senator from Nebraska, got too independent for his party associates and was defeated for re-election, charged his defeat to the railroads and became a Populist in the race for governor of Nebraska. He is independent in many other lines than politics, and being pretty well supplied with this world's goods can afford to divert himself as he will. His wife is in harmony with him, and their latest amusement has been to live in a church.

A great landmark in Washington is the little old vine clad church at the corner of Eighteenth and P streets, northwest, originally Episcopalian and later used for Swedenborgian services. It was sold about the time Senator Van Wyck's term closed, and he bought it for a little present to his wife. When the family returned to Washington last August, they concluded to "camp out" in their church property and found it so nice that they fixed up and lived in it with comfort and hilarity.

EX-SENATOR VAN WYCK'S CHURCH.

His old neighbors say that Mr. Van Wyck "isn't pretty, but he's pretty well fixed," so he can live as he likes. He and his wife first divided the auditorium by imaginary lines into parlor, dining room, art gallery and bedrooms and used the vestry for a kitchen. Later they put up some partitions, and so there they were, for how long they did not say.

Their business in Washington is to superintend repairs on their other property there. They have a beautiful home in Nebraska and soon left for that state to put their daughter in a boarding school, but with a promise to return and occupy their church for some time. Last winter they lived at the Portland hotel in Washington, and Mrs. Van Wyck's entertainments were accounted very pleasant affairs indeed. The senator has grown more radical since leaving office, and his prediction as to the course politics were to take, made immediately after President Cleveland's tariff message in 1887, has been fulfilled almost to the letter.

SLEEPLESSNESS,

Nervous Debility, Nervous Exhaustion, Neuralgia, Paralysis, Locomotor Ataxia, Melancholia, and kindred ailments, whether resulting from over anxiety, overwork or study, or from unnatural habits or excesses, are treated as a specialty, with great success, by the Staff of Specialists attached to the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute at Buffalo, N. Y. Personal examinations not always necessary. Many cases are successfully treated at a distance.

ASTHMA. A new and wonderfully successful treatment has been discovered for Asthma and Hay Fever, which can be sent by Mail or Express.

It is not simply a palliative but a radical cure.

TELLING THE TRUTH

A Well-known Business Man Testifies for Munyon.

W. D. Lovell, the well known real estate broker, of 42 N. Alexander street, Rochester, N. Y., says: "my wife was attacked with severe muscular rheumatism, and was finally compelled to take to her bed. I secured a bottle of Munyon's Rheumatism Cure, and after taking six doses she was able to rise and dress herself unassisted. I have also been relieved of sharp shooting pains after taking a few doses. I considered the cure a marvelous one.

Munyon's Rheumatism Cure is guaranteed to cure rheumatism in any part of body. Acute or muscular rheumatism can be cured in from one to five days. It speedily cures shooting pains, sciatica, lumbago and all rheumatic pains in the back, hips and loins. It seldom fails to give relief after one or two doses, and almost invariably cures before one bottle has been used.

Munyon's Homœopathic Home Remedy Company, of Philadelphia, put up specifics for n early every disease, which are sold by all druggists, mostly for 25 cents a bottle.

ITALIANS' TERRIBLE REVENGE

Blew Up a House with Dynamite and Killed Two People.

LANCASTER, Pa., Oct. 4.—A terrible tragedy occurred yesterday in Salisbury township, this county, in which a three story brick house was blown up by dynamite and the occupants, Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Leim, were instantly killed. A servant named Jackson was seriously injured and may die. Leim was a wealthy and prominent citizen, residing near Leimville, and was an extensive quarryman. Several days ago he had trouble with his employes, consisting of a gang of Italians, and it is very evident that they placed a large quantity of nitro-glycerine used in blasting rock under the large building while Mr. and Mrs. Leim were at dinner, with the above result. It is difficult to gain further information concerning the affair.

A Big Rattlesnake Skin—A Big Snake of Years Ago—Going to His New Parish—Many Other Notes of Interest.

Correspondence ARGUS and MERCURY.

—Elijah Page showed me the remains of a rattlesnake skin in his brush lot, recently. It had been shed some time before. Although badly beaten by the elements it measured over six feet long. The covering of the eye was still visible, as was the covering of the rattles.

—Job Harding, deceased, told me that over fifty years ago he killed a rattlesnake on the West Mountain that was six feet six inches long, and had twenty-eight rattles.

—George H. Olcott's rattlesnakes are drooping, and will probably soon die.

—Father Kenny has presented us with his prize Brahmas. They are as fine as can be had in the State.

—Rev. Father Kenny is making preparations for his removal to Milton, where he will assume charge of three churches.

—William Cunningham has threshed over 300 bushels of buckwheat this season.

—Patrick McNamoe has the finest lot of potatoes in town.

—Albert Stanton has the finest crop of pumpkins in Wurtsboro.

—Joseph Rosch is selling off his flock of Plymouth Rock fowls at ten cents per pound, live weight.

—Dr. Piper, and Messrs. Smith and Sherwood are progressing finely in constructing their new residences.

—Frank McCune has lost one of his carriage horses by death from colic.

—Sweet corn has been unusually smutty this season, and in some places is a complete failure.

—Hickory nuts are ripe; chestnuts also. Hundreds of bushels of the latter are sent every year from the western part of Sullivan county.

—Our hunters are very successful in hunting partridges, but quail are not to be found.

Big Yields of Apples—Baling Hay—Personal and Other Notes.

Correspondence ARGUS and MERCURY.

—Apples are very plentiful and the farmers are now busy picking them. The orchard on the farm of C. Cooper will yield 300 barrels, and the one on G. C. Casterline's farm 150 barrels and several other orchards will produce as many. Peaches are nearly gone. Mr. B. Hait has had the finest we have seen.

—Mr. Sanford Vail has had the hay baler at work for the last week; he has had his entire crop baled. Mr. B. Hait has also had one stack which he bought of Mr. Vail baled.

—A steam sawmill is now at work in the woods of J. C. Cole.

—Mrs. Geo. Wood, of Deckertown, is visiting at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. Monell.

—John Monell, of Deckertown, who has had a light attack of diphtheria, is spending his vacation with his parents in this place.

—Miss Mabel Stage, of Crystal Run, returned home, Saturday, after a week's visit with relatives here and at Unionville.

—Our school has been in session just one month. The pupils who have attended regularly for the first month are Edith Elston, Frank Elston, Elna Stage and Hermione Parks.

THE PRESIDENT COMING TO MIDDLETOWN.

The Sick May Receive Medical Services Free of Charge.

The President and members of the European and American Staff of German, English, Irish, Scandinavian and American Doctors of New York city will be at the Russell House, Middletown, on one day only. The sick and afflicted may consult them without charge during their stay.

Wednesday, October 17th,

If you are incurable they will tell you; therefore invalids must not take offence if they are rejected, as no case will be accepted unless there is a moral certainty of a cure being effected. These Doctors are graduates of the best universities of Europe and America; they are of the highest standing in the medical profession and have had unlimited experience in the treatment of all Chronic Diseases and Deformities. As the latest methods, instruments and appliances of the various schools of both the Old and the New World are familiar to and at the command of this staff of doctors, it is reasonable to believe that in ninety cases out of every hundred a cure can be effected, even when the patients have been given up as incurable by doctors who have had less experience. Do not be discouraged because your doctor cannot give you relief, or even if he tells you that you cannot get well, for it matters not what your disease may be, you can consult the doctors free, and, if curable, they will treat you; if incurable, they will give you such advice as will tend to prolong life and afford you the greatest relief.

The doctor will visit Middletown one day each month Office hours from 10 a. m. to 6 p. m.

TOWN OF GREENVILLE.

The Democrats of the town of Greenville are requested to meet at the hotel of S Polhamus, in said town, Tuesday evening, Oct 9th, at 7:30 o clock, to choose delegates to represent them in the Congressional, County and Assembly District Conventions.

By order of the Town Committee.

TOWN OF MINISINK.

The Democrats of the town of Minisink will meet at Chardavoyne's Hall, in the village of Westtown, Tuesday afternoon, Oct. 9th, at 2 o'clock, to choose delegates to the Congressional, County and Assembly District Conventions.

By order of Town Committee

Only 190 of the 356 members of the present House of Representatives have been renominated. Of these 100 are Democrats, eighty-five Republicans and five Populists.

The days for registration in rural districts this year are as follows: First day, October 20th; second and last day, October 27th. On the last day names can be added to the registry list only when the citizen appears in person before the Board of Registry.

Ex Senator Fassett, of Elmira, says that Senator Hill is so popular in the Chemung district and his nomination has been received with such enthusiasm by the Democrats of that section, that unless the Republicans put forth the greatest efforts, he will have at least 2,500 plurality in Chemung county.

The Grangers and members of the Farmers' Alliance, of Pennsylvania, have voted to oppose the election of every Senatorial or Legislative candidate, who will not pledge himself to oppose the movement to repeal the law prohibiting the sale in Pennsylvania of oleomargarine or other imitations of butter.

Some faint idea of the immensity of California's output of fruits is had in the figures which follow: Up to September 30 there were shipped to Eastern points 280 carloads of raisins; of prunes and other dried fruits, 1,100 carloads: of green fruits, 5,500 carloads, and of canned fruits and vegetables 1,000 carloads. Nothwithstanding these huge consignments the warehouses of the State are filled to overflowing with packages of dried fruits awaiting a market.

Republicans of the Twelfth Congressional District, now represented by Bourke Cochran, are disgusted at the nomination of Robert A Cheeseborough, who is not a resident of the district and known to only a few residents of the district The nomination was made by the votes of delegates from the Eleventh Assembly District, nearly all of whom were colored. Cheeseborough has made a large fortune out of vaseline and it assumed that the colored delegates from the Eleventh District were well "greased" before they entered the convention.

The Societies for the Prevention of Cruelty, at their annual meeting in Albany, yesterday, adopted a resolution requesting the Legislature to pass an amendment to the Penal Code making corporal punishment part of the penalty for gross cruelty to children and in cases of wife beating. The resolution was heartily endorsed by Elbridge T. Gerry and other prominent men in the convention. To restore the whipping post would be a radical departure from the modern tendency to treat criminals with distinguished courtesy and sentimental tenderness. The arguments in favor of giving human brutes a taste of acute physical pain and of subjecting them to the degradation which a public whipping involves are very strong, and there are thousands of good citizens who will heartily favor the use of the scourge in the punishment of the torturers of children and the beaters of wives.

KILLED BY A LIVE WIRE.

Deaths of Two Employes of the Boston Electric Light Company.

BY UNITED PRESS.

BOSTON, Oct. 4.—Two employes of the Boston Electric Light Co. were killed by a live electric wire this morning.

One of the men, named Day, was killed while on a pole fixing a lamp. A strap around his body held him against the deadly wire and he was being slowly roasted, and a fellow workman, named Monroe, climbed the pole to release him, when he was shocked, and, falling backward to the street, fractured his skull.

Another employe, on another pole, was also badly shocked,

A STARTLING STORY.

But Luckily Not a True One—Based on a Slender Foundation.

This morning the startling story was circulated, that a patient had escaped from the small-pox hospital in Port Jervis, and spent most of the night in the waiting room at the Erie dept. This was as far as the peddlers of the story could go. They did not know what had become of the man, or how it was ascertained that he was afflicted with small-pox.

After much fruitless effort a reporter finally arrived at the conclusion that the foundation of the story, if it had any at all, was simply this:

An unfortunate Italian, who had a foot crushed a few miles up the Erie, had been brought to this city, and orders had then been received to send him to Port Jervis. While waiting for the milk train, several persons saw him there who had just a few minutes before heard an Erie employe talking about a patient escaping from the pest house when Port Jervis was visited by small-pox several years ago and they jumped to the conclusion that the dago with the crushed foot, was the man, and started the story on its rounds.

ABANDONED HIS WIFE AND CHILD

G. I. Edwards Notifies His Wife that She Will Never See Him Again.

Mr. G. Irving Edwards, wife of the former baggage master at the O. & W. depot, has received a letter from her husband, who left town about a week ago, in which he states that he has left for parts unknown and that she will never see him again.

Mrs. Edwards is a daughter of Mr. L L. Purdy and was married several years ago. One child is the result of the union. Edwards and his wife have lived unhappily together for some time past. There have been frequent quarrels, and about six months ago, Mr. Purdy caused the arrest of his son-in-law, on the grounds of cruelty to and non-support of his wife. The young man proved conclusively to the Recorder that he had supported his wife and the differences between the men were adjusted in the court room and Edwards was discharged,

The couple continued to live together and it was clear sailing until about a week ago, when Edwards disappeared. It was given out to the reporters that he had resigned his position at the O. and W. depot and intended to start a theatrical combination of which he, with his various musical instruments, would be the chief attraction.

Mrs. Edwards, it is understood, will make application for an absolute divorce.

Which Would You
Rather Wear?
A
Cold or
An Overcoat?

There can be little choice, for no one wants a cold, and even if they did, the attractiveness of those overcoats of ours would speedily change their minds. We used to pride ourselves on our overcoats, but we've surpassed ourselves this year. Never did we offer the values in overcoats we do now. They're so much cheaper—better goods also. Then there is a new wrinkle in linings. We use clay diagonal now—more genteel—wears better. Better see 'em.

Then there's our suits—but you know their quality. We need only to remind you of the great variety of them; in prices, also.

BUNCO BUSINESS.

Beware of bunco business, as some stores practice. Their system is to catch you by selling a few articles at less than cost and then get double profits on the bulk of their goods. Our system is a uniform profit, whether an overcoat or a collar. Send your children to us and they can buy as cheap as any person.

A change of weather requires a change of clothing. We have got good values in Underwear at 19c., formerly 25c; 35c, formerly 50c.; 50c. ½ wool, formerly $1; extra heavy Outside Shirts at 50c., this is our leading bargain. Soft Hats 25c. up. Fur Derbies 98c. up. Our prices on clothing seem to have no competition. Our Children's Suits at 75 and 98c. Our Dress Suits at $2.25 are sellers. Our Boys' Double Breasted Black Cheviots at $4.50 is as good as others sell at $7. Our Men's $6 Suits are as good a business suit as is wanted, and our Black Dress Suits at $7.50 and $10 pleases all.

SECOND ASSISTANT DANIEL SCHMITT, Middletown's New Fire Department Officer

PARADE OF FIREMEN.

GUARDIANS OF LIFE AND PROPERTY PASS IN REVIEW.

Inspected by Officials and the People—Strictly a Home Affair But a Creditable One—The Companies in Line and Their Officers—Notes of the Parade.

The thirty-fifth annual parade of the Middletown Fire Department took place, to-day. While it was not such a parade as Middletown people are accustomed to, it was one that would be considered in some other towns to be of large proportions and a brilliant affair, but to our own people it lacked the usual importance, not because it was not a fine parade, for it was, but, because it was not so big as in former years and there were no visiting firemen to admire and entertain; that instead of but one band there were not anywhere from eight to a dozen, or even more; that instead of the ordinary number of people on the streets, there should have been several thousands of strangers in town.

All these differences in the fire parade of to-day and of former years, strike the average Middletowner very forcibly, as the lack of enthusiasm in the early hours of the day and the meagre decorations plainly showed.

The cause of all this is, however, well known to our people. The action of the Common Council with its peculiar ideas of economy, in cutting in half the usual appropriation for parade purposes, left the several fire companies no choice whatever. They could not get up a first class parade without going much deeper into their own pockets than they have done when double the amount of public money has been contributed. Practically Middletown has, therefore, no parade this year, but rather a public inspection which is required of it.

But, with its seven handsomely uniformed companies, made up of as fine a lot of men as ever pulled a rope or climbed a ladder, and the fire apparatus, it was by no means a parade that Middletowners need not feel ashamed of, if the town had been full of strangers. The ranks of the companies were full and the firemen marched well, as they always do, and as to appearance, every man in line looked as well and behaved as well as if there had been twenty companies in line, with a band leading each company.

The following are the officers of the department and of the several companies:

The programme announced was followed out. At 1 p. m. the companies assembled at their houses; at 1:30 took position in line, and at 2 o'clock were inspected by the Mayor and such of the Aldermen as were present and the procession started.

POSITIONS IN LINE.

Pioneer Band.
Monhagen Hose Co.
Eagle Hose Co.
McQuoid Engine Co.
Phœnix Engine Co.
Ontario Hose Co.
Waalkill Engine Co.
Excelsior Hook and Ladder Co.

LINE OF MARCH.

North street to Wickham avenue, to West Main street, to South street, to Washington street, to Academy avenue, to East Main street, to North street, to Depot street, to James street, passing in review at the Russell, to West Main street and disband.

The total number of men in the procession, including band, police, Mayor and Aldermen, was about 265 The number of each company in line was as follows: Monhagens, 25; Eagles, 27; McQuoids, 33; Phœnix, 22, Ontarios, 37; Waalkills, 24; Excelsiors, 31

In addition, there were with Eagles, seven uniformed Young Americas, and with Waalkills ten Junior Waalkills, beside the two mascots, young Ward Edwards, of Phœnix, and Johnnie Farrell, of McQuoids.

NOTES.

—The only carriage in line was that occupied by Gabe Tuthill and Hunt Bodine, which brought up the rear.

—The crowd on North street at 2:30 was as great as at any ordinary parade, but it was made up chiefly of Middletown people who came out to see Middletown firemen march.

—Mayor Stansbury and most of the Aldermen took their medicine for the small appropriation to-day. They walked over the line of march with the firemen instead of riding in carriages as usual. It was a short march.

McQuoids will hold a festival at the Assembly Rooms in the evening.

Waalkills will hold a private hop in their truck house, and Ontarios will have a dance at Nicholson's Hall.

PORT JERVIS'S SMALL-POX EPIDEMIC

No New Cases To-day—Where the Patients Are Located.

A telephone message from Port Jervis, this afternoon, states that there are no new cases of small-pox in that village. The official report of the Health Officer, at noon, showed that there were six cases in the pest house, two in St. Mary's Orphan Asylum in a private hospital, and the following persons at their homes: Lorenzo Wood, Franklin street; Mrs. Holbert, Sussex street, and Mrs. Buchanan, in the suburbs, making eleven in all.

The public schools and free library were closed, to-day, and every possible precaution is being taken to prevent the spread of the disease.

Aaron Samuels, to-day, resigned as President of the Board of Health on account of business matters, and Dr. J. J. Mills was appointed in his place.

BURIED IN ONE GRAVE.

Funeral of the Persons Drowned at Port Orange.

Thos. Kiernan and his grandson, Tommy Shields, who were drowned together at Port Orange, Tuesday, were buried together in one grave at Otisville, to-day.

Rev. Father Sally, of Port Jervis, celebrated a requiem high mass and preached a most pathetic sermon.

Mr. J. M. Garland, organist of St. Joseph's Church, of this city, had charge of the music.

Real Estate Sales.

—The C. H. Van Blarcom farm at Neelytown, containing seventy acres, was sold at auction, yesterday, for the very good price of $5,000 to a Mr. Sparks. Mr. Van Blarcom will return to Paterson, N. J.

INCIDENTS AND HAPPENINGS IN GOSHEN.

A Wedding—The Crawford Furniture Company's New Store—Promotions in the Public School—Coming Events—Last Ball Games of the Season.

From Our Regular Correspondent

—Miss Emeline Hawkins, daughter of Lewis F. Hawkins, of East Division, and Mr. George Andrews, formerly of Chester, now living in New York city, were married, last evening. The ceremony was performed in the old-fashioned Quaker style, and was a decided novelty to the young people present. The newly wedded pair left on Erie train 3 for the West, last night. They were received at the depot here by a number of friends, who provided a salute of torpedos as their train pulled out.

—The C. E. Crawford Furniture Co. will open its new store in the Merriam Block, Saturday next. It offers a handsome decorated toilet set with each of the first ten bedroom suits sold.

—On account of the crowded condition of some of the primary departments in the Union School the highest class in each room has been promoted, thus equalizing the number in each room.

—St. James's Guild will give an entertainment at the Music Hall the latter part of the month.

—The Pastors' Club will give its first annual hop at Purdy's Hall, Thursday evening, Oct. 18th. There will be a cake walk at 10:30 o'clock. Messrs. Beasley, Broadhead, Mines and Morrison are the Committee of Arrangements.

—Elihu Lovett, of Amity, was in town, yesterday.

—The Goshens will play the Chesters on the Goshen Driving Park, today, and the Florida Club to morrow. These will be the last games of the season.

HYMENEAL.

Gray—Perrault

Mr. Harry Gray, a member of the firm of Gray Bro's., jewelers, of Port Jervis, and Miss Alice Emma, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. T. Perrault, of that village, were married Tuesday evening at 6:30 o'clock.

McInroth—Brown

Wm. E. McInroth, of Carbondale, formerly one of the proprietors of "The Orange", on West Main street, and Miss Carrie E. Brown, of No 91 Linden avenue, were married in this city, last evening, by Rev. C. M. Winchester, at the Free Christian Church.

THE TURNERS DANCE.

The First Ball of the Middletown Turn Verein.

The Middletown Turn Verein held its first dance at the hall of the St. Joseph's Society in the Nearing building, last evening.

There were present about thirty couples, who danced until 2 o'clock, this morning, to music furnished by Berg and Sayer.

Refreshments were served during the evening by lady friends of the Turners.

ERIE DIRECTORS RE-ELECTED.

The Road's Unexampled Business a Sure Index of Expanding Trade.

The Erie stockholders at their annual meeting, yesterday, re-elected the present directors, whose terms expire by classification. That was the only business which came before the meeting. The officials of the Erie report that the road is doing a heavier business from week to week than at any time since it came under the present management.

A STRANGE CASE.

How an Enemy was Foiled.

The following graphic statement will be read with intense interest: "I cannot describe the numb, creepy sensation that existed in my arms, hands and legs. I had to rub and beat those parts until they were sore, to overcome in a measure the dead feeling that had taken possession of them. In addition, I had a strange weakness in my back and around my waist, together with an indescribable 'gone' feeling in my stomach. Physicians said it was creeping paralysis, from which, according to their universal conclusion, there is no relief. Once it fastens upon a person, they say, it continues its insidious progress until it reaches a vital point and the sufferer dies. Such was my prospect. I had been doctoring a year and a half steadily, but with no particular benefit, when I saw an advertisement of Dr Miles' Restorative Nervine, procured a bottle and began using it. Marvelous as it may seem, but a few days had passed before every bit of that creepy feeling had left me, and there has not been even the slightest indication of its return. I now feel as well as I ever did, and have gained ten pounds in weight, though I had run down from 170 to 147. Four others have used Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine on my recommendation, and it has been as satisfactory in their cases as in mine."—James Kane, La Rue, O.

Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine is sold by all druggists on a positive guarantee, or sent direct by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $1 per bottle, six bottles for $5, express prepaid. It is free from opiates or dangerous drugs.

MR. WILSON.

"A chilly town! A chilly town!" murmured H. Pemberton Wilson as he limped around to the sunny side of warehouse F and slowly let himself down to a recumbent position on the hot, tarry boards.

"A chilly town. That's what. Even in the summer time," said H. Pemberton Wilson as he threw a stray nail into the muddy slip and lazily watched the rings enlarge and lose themselves in faintest ripples. "You take any train, and it lands you here, and the only comfort of being here is that there's so many trains out. I s'pose my stomach thinks I'm tryin to go without anything for a week just on a bet. The country lanes must be sighin for me. I wonder if turnips are getting large enough?"

To designate H. Pemberton Wilson as a hobo would simply corroborate his opinion of himself.

He has carved "Hobo Wilson" on many a section shanty and milepost between Scranton, Pa., and Council Bluffs, Ia., and there were friends who knew him as Rooster.

On one Indiana trip he had earned the title of Come Again Wilson because he had a persistent way of getting on a train after once being put off.

Like many another of his class, he was not devoid of sentiment or philosophy. He carried in his breast pocket a speckled volume of Burns' poems. He had forgotten to return it to a public library in southern Illinois. The book opened of itself at the lines, "A man's a man for a' that." Hobo Wilson read the poem as he lay with his back against the warm boards of warehouse F, and then he put the book back into the pocket of his coat, which he had thrown down beside him.

At the bend in the river a coal vessel was being unloaded. The click of the machinery and the noisy dumping of the big buckets at the regular intervals became rather soothing when the rhythm was understood. Hobo Wilson tapped with his thumb, keeping time, and looked through the rigging of a lumber schooner in the second slip beyond at the coughing smokestack which reached up from a small planing mill. The mill was buzzing in changeable tones, like a nest of discordant bumblebees.

The smoke rolling from the stack drifted through the rigging, where the yards and netted lines seemed to cut into irregular shapes. Hobo Wilson watched drowsily until to his blurred vision there were many fantastic forms floating in the foggy maze. And he was not greatly surprised when one of these forms took on the outline of a dwarfish human being and floated slowly toward him. It poised for a moment above a bawser timber and shook itself, a shower of soot falling from it. Then it settled into a comfortable sitting attitude and looked at him.

"Well, Rooster, how's everything?"

The voice was rather small and shrill. Hobo Wilson could not answer at once. He was marveling at the appearance of his strange visitor. The little man was hardly three feet high. Under the slouch hat was a good natured and wrinkled face, decorated on the chin with a tuft of beard, which might have been gray at one time, but which was now blackened and dusty, the same as his face and clothes. The latter were of rough quality—a hickory shirt, a shoddy pair of trousers fringed at the bottoms and held up by one suspender, and a pair of worn shoes much too large and laced with hemp twine.

"Are you down on your luck, Rooster?" asked the little man.

"I'm livin on the air," said Hobo, "but where did you come from?"

"I just dropped in with the smoke. Don't know me, eh?"

"That's what; I don't."

"Listen, Hobo Wilson. Do you remember last Saturday morning when you were at Hammond and divided your handout with a brother who alighted from a box car a day out from Louisville and very hungry?"

"I do. 'A man's a man for a' that.'"

"True enough, Rooster. That was a good deed. More than once I've seen you give a comrade a good place on the truck."

"Where was you?"

"I dare say you didn't look up into the rolling cloud of smoke to see the good fairy of the hoboes."

"Fairy!"

"Cert. You didn't expect the guardian fairy of the hoboes to tear around the country in all kinds of weather with a little white robe and some ostrich feather wings?"

"I s'pose not."

"Hobo Wilson, I've watched you. I never saw you do a pard any dirt. The good things of this world must not all be given to brakemen and farmers and people who work. Are you hungry?"

"Sure!"

"Then feel in the pockets of that coat beside you and believe me when I tell you that every man must live before he dies."

"Sufferin brake beams!" gasped Rooster as he drew from one pocket after another crumpled rolls of bank bills. He heaped them up on the faded check cloth, and his tears fell on them.

"No more drillin in the snow; no souphouses; never again in a bucket. Pard, you've done"——

But when he looked up again the one galluses fairy had disappeared, and the smoke which pushed through the rigging and rolled away was blacker than ever.

He put all the money in his pockets, first throwing away the balls of twine, the old pocketbook and the needle and thread wound about a beer cork.

On the street car he could find no bill less than $5, and the conductor grumbled about the change.

"Give me the change, confound you," said Mr. Wilson, "or else I'll have that number off your cap."

Thereupon the conductor quieted down and gave him his change. Mr. Wilson tossed 10 cents to a baby on a seat in front of him and then settled back to enjoy his ride. He had never known of a more beautiful day. He observed with much satisfaction that every one else seemed as happy as he. The women in the doorways were smiling, and children romped along the sidewalks. He counted the money from one pocket and found that it amounted to $65, or 1,300 glasses of beer. The other passengers watched him curiously.

He alighted at Polk street and walked over to Dinny's place. The old crowd was there.

"Come up, you fellows," said Mr. Wilson, "and drink all you can hold. I mean it," he added as they did not seem willing to stand up and take chances. "Here's the stuff."

He dribbled out on the bar the silver which the conductor had given him.

There was a rush, and Dinny began setting out rows of schooners.

"Drink up that money!" shouted Mr. Wilson, "and say, Dinny, give me a good cigar."

While the boys were taking away the "scuttles" as fast as they could be passed up, Mr. Wilson went out to purchase a wardrobe. He knew the place to go, because he had stood before it many a time looking at the brilliant neckties and white collars. The proprietor met him gruffly, but melted into smiles when he saw the roll of money.

"Fix me up from the skin out," said Mr. Wilson. "Give me the best stuff you've got and hand it out quick. Have you got a back room?"

Certainly he had a back room. Mr. Wilson was shown to that apartment and was treated to every courtesy. One by one the necessary articles were pushed into the room. At the end of ten minutes he was a new man. His neck felt the dignified embrace of a collar for the first time in years. The stiff shirt had straightened him up. He put his money into his new clothes and strolled out. The big officer who had once kicked him moved respectfully aside to allow him to pass.

"I'll hire some one to lick that fellow," said Mr. Wilson as he directed his steps toward a fancy barroom.

He drank cocktail after cocktail, and the only effect was to increase his general cheerfulness and make every one around him more attentive to his wishes.

"Where's the best restaurant in town?" he asked, leaning over the bar and familiarly addressing the man in the white garments.

"It's two blocks down."

"I'll show you where it is," said a man who wore clothes almost as good as those of Mr. Wilson; "come with me."

Mr. Wilson locked arms with the gentleman, who introduced himself as president of a bank and said he was proud to be allowed to walk along the street with Mr. Wilson. They met several distinguished citizens whose names Mr. Wilson had read in scraps of newspaper around the lodging house.

They met the mayor, the postmaster, Mr. Armour, Mr. Field, Mr. Pullman and others. Every time Mr. Wilson was introduced the whole crowd went and had a drink. Mr. Wilson showed them how much money he had, and they slapped him on the back and said he was a good fellow.

At last Mr. Wilson and the banker sat down to dine. They had lobster and pie and champagne and all kinds of drinks, and Mr. Wilson gave the waiter a dollar to fan him while he was eating.

Mr. Wilson ate two lobsters, for they were the first he had tasted in ten years, and every one in the house watched him when he pulled out such a lot of money and demanded to know how much he owed the place.

After that he and the banker went riding in an open carriage, and all the people along the street stopped to see them go by. They halted in front of a saloon and had the bartender bring three bottles of champagne out to the carriage—one for Mr. Wilson, one for the banker and one for the driver.

While they were drinking the champagne out of the bottles a crowd gathered around. Mr. Wilson ordered a policeman to disperse the crowd, and he did so promptly.

"Now, what shall we do next?" asked the banker, putting his arm around Mr. Wilson's neck.

"Oh, take a little ride and then have something more to drink. Drive up there!" and he stood up in the seat and kicked the driver in the back.

So they drove up one street and down another, while the bands played and women at the windows waved handkerchiefs. Mr. Wilson leaned back in the cushions, thoroughly happy and counting his money, when he felt a sudden pain in his right foot.

The pain became more sharp.

He raised himself to his elbow.

He was getting the "hot foot." A heavy policeman was pounding the sole of his shoe. The club was lifted again, but Hobo Wilson drew back his leg.

"Go wan, now! Get a move!" said the policeman, giving him a kick with the broad of his foot.

"Well, I'm goin," whined Hobo Wilson, whose head was all in a whirl as he came to his feet. He picked up his coat and limped around the corner of warehouse F, and at each step the cruel truth became clearer to him.

"Thank goodness for one thing," said he, "I can still taste the lobster."

There was one remarkable circumstance in connection with this adventure, and it is a puzzle to Pemberton Wilson, alias Hobo Wilson, alias Come Again Wilson, alias Rooster. He remembered throwing away the pocketbook, thread and needle and string when he found the money.

Sure enough, when he searched his coat afterward, he found that of his personal property only the copy of Burns remained.—Chicago Record.

A WHOPPER.

Why the Judge and the Colonel Gave Up Fishing.

The judge and the colonel went fishing the other day. For weeks the judge had been hearing of the whoppers he knew where pickerel weighed. He had rods and were to be had for the asking. The colonel listened patiently to the judge and then said he'd go, partly because he wanted to shut out the judge's stories and partly because he needed a day off.

They packed their rods and other paraphernalia and started on an early train for the pond. All the way out the judge talked of nothing but the great fish that were waiting to be caught, and before they arrived at their destination the colonel had caught some of the judge's enthusiasm and was as anxious to get to work as the judge himself. They got a boat, and the judge, who is somewhat of an athlete, said he would do the rowing at first. The colonel put out two lines, one over the stern and the other from a pole.

The judge rowed slowly around the pond, which is not more than a mile long and a quarter of a mile broad, and the colonel attended assiduously to the lines. He didn't get a rise. After the first circuit had been made the colonel said, "Seems to me that those pickerel I have heard you mention are taking a day off."

"Never you mind," protested the judge. "You can't expect to catch fish in a minute. It takes patience to get pickerel. Now, to show you that I am in earnest in this thing, I will row you round again, and I'll bet you'll have a fish before you get back."

The judge pulled slowly along, and the colonel sat in the stern and puffed moodily on his pipe. They went half way round without a strike. "Huh," said the colonel, "we might just as well be fishing in the middle of an asphalt pavement."

The judge did not deign to reply. He yanked viciously at the oars a couple of times and then fell into his stroke again, and there was silence for five minutes.

Then the reel on the pole gave a click and a whir-r-r, and the colonel made a grab for it, stopped it and began reeling in for dear life. The line stretched far back among the rushes near the shore. "Pull him in!" yelled the judge.

The colonel was red in the face by this time. He tugged and hauled and tried to wind up the reel. "I can't budge him," he gasped.

The judge came back and grabbed the pole. He tugged and hauled too. Nothing moved. "I jocks," said the judge, "that one weighs 50 pounds."

Then they both got hold together. The strike had been a good one, for the hook held. They heard a tremendous splashing in the high weeds. "We're getting him," yelled the judge. Keep a-pulling!"

The splashing in the rushes grew louder. The two men pulled on that pole as if they were taking in an anchor. "He's coming," grasped the colonel.

"It'll be the biggest pickerel ever caught in the state," said the judge, giving a tremendous yank at the line.

Then out of the rushes burst a mild eyed cow with the hook fast in one of her legs. And the colonel and the judge left the boat where it was and waded ashore.—Buffalo Express.

The hatter pulled over his stock and finally presented to the woman a hat worth about 50 cents.

"I guess this will satisfy you," he said. "It is 50 cents."

"All right. I'll take it. I wanted something cheap for the boy to have fits in," and then she went out.—Syracuse Post.

STATE OF NEW YORK,
Office of the Secretary of State,

ALBANY, AUGUST 4, 1894.

Pursuant to the provisions of section seven, chapter six hundred and eight, Laws of eighteen hundred and ninety-two, notice is hereby given that the following proposed amendment to article six of the Constitution of the State of New York will be submitted to the people of the said State, for the purpose of voting thereon at the next general election in this State, to be held on the sixth day of November, eighteen hundred and ninety-four.

CONCURRENT RESOLUTION.

Proposing amendment to article six of the Constitution of this State in relation to County Judges and Court of Sessions in the county of Kings.

The People of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

Whereas, At the last session of the Legislature, the following amendment was proposed in the Senate and Assembly, viz:

Resolved (if the Senate concur), That article six of the Constitution of this state be amended by adding thereto the following section:

"§ 32. There shall be in the county of Kings two county judges, each of whose term of office shall be six years. The county judge in office at the adoption of this amendment shall hold office until the expiration of the term for which he was elected. The additional county judge shall be elected at the general election held next after the adoption of this amendment, and his term of office shall begin on the first day of January thereafter. When the official term of any county judge of said county will expire by the effluxion of time or the disability of age, the successor of such judge shall be chosen at the preceding general election. Vacancies otherwise occuring in said offices shall be filled in the same manner as vacancies in the Supreme Court. The salary of said county judge shall be as now established by law for county judge in said county. Their powers and jurisdiction shall be co-ordinate and co-equal. One or more parts of the county court may be held in said county. The court of sessions in the county of Kings is continued with the powers and jurisdiction it now posses-es, and with such additional powers and jurisdiction as may be conferred by the Legislature; it must be held by a county judge of the county, and may hold one or more parts."

And whereas, The said proposed amendment was agreed to by a majority of the members elected to each of the two houses of the said Legislature, entered on the journals, with the yeas and nays taken thereon, and referred to the Legislature to be chosen at the then next general election of senators.

And, whereas, Such election has taken place and said proposed amendment was duly published for three months previous to the time of making such choice, in pursuance of the provisions of article thirteen of the Constitution; therefore,

Resolved (if the Senate concur), That the Assembly do agree to the proposed amendment.

STATE OF NEW YORK,

SOME STRAY THOUGHTLETS

SEVERAL TOPICS DISCUSSED FROM A WOMAN'S POINT OF VIEW.

The Arrest of Capt. Howgate—Uselessness of Long Delayed Punishment—Penalties of Crime Already Paid—A Girl's Sad Death and Thoughts That It Suggests—The Folly of Doing What You Can Get Others to Do.

Though it has been newly declared that woman is incapable of making laws, it is still left her to comment on those made by men and to criticise their ways of carrying them into effect. To one woman, it does seem as if bringing the law's mighty arm down on old Captain Howgate, who for the last thirteen years has been Harvey Williams, and landing him in prison for the rest of the short time he may have to live, cannot serve any useful purpose. Of course, Howgate should have been punished; he richly deserved it; he long ago committed a gigantic money crime against the government. He is now an old man,—from all accounts a very different personage from the gay Lothario of his government service days. He is bent, and thin, and gray, and old. He was living, when arrested, a perfectly respectable, hard working life, under his assumed name,—had been so living for most of the time since he fled from justice. He wasn't having any fun. He seemed to be just living along from force of habit, harmless and unknown, but a detective had hounded him for years, and at last nabbed him and walked him off to spend the rest of his life in prison.

What good this can do the government or the people is hard to see. It seems to me it would have been better if he had never been found or, if discovered, quietly ignored. People cry out: "He must be made an example of." Now I don't believe that old man's having been caught after thirteen years of industrious freedom will deter any one from committing a crime, and I do believe a majority of the people who read of his arrest had a feeling of sympathy for him. I don't see how the detective could have felt much satisfaction from pouncing upon him, and I rater feel as if the man had earned his freedom by having grown so old and having been so long unknown.

As for the good his going to prison can do, the government will not get its money back; he cannot be more disgraced than he was. Why not have let him continue his existence as a harmless old man, under his assumed name, till death closed the life of the respectable man as his disappearance had ended that of the disgraced one years ago? When there are so many people to punish, who are continuing in wrong doing, it dosen't seem worth while to make an example of a poor creature who was doing the best he could and whom every one would have forgotten if he hadn't been brought to life again. He didn't seem to have any inclination, nor was he in a position to do any harm, besides, there are a good many punishments not made public which he has probably had to endure already and they are the things which have made him bent and thin and old, and might even be considered sufficient to atone for his collosal crime of long ago.

A young lady died a horrible death in New York, last week, illustrating among other things how foolish it is to attempt work one is not compelled by necessity or made competent by education to perform. This young woman seemed to have had for her fad,—and all young women must have fads now, brandied peaches. Some men, possibly several men, had praised her work in that direction, or more likely some one had commended some other girl for making brandied peaches, and she, not wishing to be outdone, sought to try her hand at it. The unusual character of the work would account for a clumsiness which led to the fatal disaster. With two servants standing by, this young woman, not half as used to a kitchen and its ways as they were, essayed to do their work. Of course her hands were not hardened to it; of course she didn't know how to manage a pan of brandy on a hot stove, and as certainly the fluid was spilled and enveloped her in flames. The accident was, mercifully, followed soon by death

The story is a sad one, but would to my mind be infinitely sadder if the two servants hadn't stood by. Why any girl should want to do the work of making brandied peaches under such circumstances passes my comprehension. I may be capable of understanding a dutiful daughter, or a loving sister or sweetheart wishing to cater to the taste of father, brother or lover by trying her hand at his favorite dish, (brandied peaches being particularly a mannish delicacy,) provided she had no one to instruct or do her bidding; but the folly of doing it herself, when she was able to hire those who were used to such work, not only that but to do it when those others were actually hired and standing beside her was shown by the horrible results to the poor girl who was burned to death last week.

Of course there is an other moral to this tale than the one to never do yourself what it is another's place to do for you, and that moral is concerning the foolhardiness of bringing fire into contact with any inflammatory article. Probably that very family object to their cook lighting the fire in the kitchen range range with kerosene,—most families do object, and for that matter most cooks do light it that way notwithstanding objections, and yet in this case the oldest daughter goes into the kitchen, places a large pan of brandy on the fire to boil and tottle over.

Some how this seems inconsistent and ought to set womankind against doing brandied peaches that way, for though women must by this time have become accustomed to being called inconsistent they really don't like it.

These two incidents I have mentioned, dismal as they are, are so much more interesting than the plight of the Chinese, or the intricacies of the past and future work of the Lexow Committee or, in politics, seeing one candidate dangled before the public eye with the corpse of an ex-candidate fastened around his neck, that I have remembered them from my newspaper reading of last week.

A BROKEN TRAFFIC CONTRACT

The Lackawanna's Suit Against the Susquehanna and Western.

Argument was heard by Judge Green, in the Supreme Court, at Buffalo, yesterday, on the application of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad Company to make permanent the injunction granted by Judge Haight, restraining the New York, Susquehanna and Western from shipping its coal over any other road than the Lackawanna, pending the trial of the action which the latter has brought to recover $4,950,000 for violation of a contract made in 1882, under which the New York, Susquehnna and Western agreed to ship all its coal over the Lackawanna road.

In this action the plaintiffs allege that the contractors' combination between themselves and the defendants is perpetual, and that, under the law governing such contracts, it runs for ninety-nine years. The profits for that time would reach $4,950,000, and the Lackawanna demands this amount from the Susquehanna Company.

The defendants answer that the contract formed a combination, which was in effect a trust and was, therefore, void and invalid under the law prohibiting trusts. It is further urged that the Lackawanna took advantage of the weakness of the Susquehanna and forced it into an agreement to control the price of a necessary of life, the supply of which is limited, and that therefore the contract was void as against public policy.

Another point made by the Susquehanna's lawyers was that both the companies being Pennsylvania corporations, the actions hould have been begun in that State and that the New York Supreme Court has no jurisdiction.

Judge Green reserved his decision.

A SHAMEFULLY NEGLECTED STREET

Upper Highland Avenue in Urgent Need of Repairs Should Be Worked at Once.

The ARGUS invites the attention of the city authorities to the condition of upper Highland avenue,—that long stretch of thoroughfare from the cap of the hill to the junction with the Bloomingburgh turnpike. It is the decent thing to conclude the authorities have had not had their attention directed to the shocking state of this piece of roadway, else it would seem that they would ere this have done something to better it.

It should not be lost sight of that Highland avenue is practically the only driveway in this city over which a large portion of the city's population can pass into the outlying country without having to cross the roadbed of a steam railroad or encountering the trolley cars, and that, consequently, it is much frequented by ladies and others who are more or less nervous drivers. Other reasons could be advanced in behalf of this much needed improvement, in especial the one that the abutting property owners have a right as taxpayers to demand that a part of the money they contribute to the general tax fund be spent where their interests lie. But, as already said, it cannot but be that the authorities are unaware of the facts in this matter. Now that attention is called to them it is to be expected that something will be done.

BOLD YOUNG HIGHWAYMEN.

Foot Pads Seize a Lady on a Public Street and Rob Her of Her Purse.

Middletown has two bold young highwaymen, who should not be allowed to run at large very long, if they continue the calling upon which they have entered.

Last evening about 7.30 o'clock, Mrs. Mary Hutchinson, who resides with her brother at No. 36 Royce avenue, came down town to do some shopping, carrying her purse in her hand, as most women do, thus holding out inducements to foot pads.

When she started down John street she noticed two men run down on the opposite side of the street and cross over at Linden avenue. She thought nothing of this at the time, but when she had passed Linden avenue, one of the young men whom she says wore a cap and was not over 18 years old, was leaning against a fence and suddenly sprang upon her, seizing her by both wrists. She screamed, but there was no help near, and almost in an instant the fellow had forced her purse from her hand.

Mrs. Hutchinson cried "police" and "stop thief," but a gutter band was playing half a block away and drowned the sound of her voice.

The fellow, who seized the purse, ran in one direction on Linden avenue, and his pal, who had stood near to render service, if necessary, in the opposite direction.

Mrs. Hutchinson at once notified the police and gave the best description she could of the young men, but it is not definite enough to identify them.

The purse contained nearly five dollars in money.

AN OLD LANDMARK DESTROYED.

The Carpenter Homestead at Carpenter's Point Burned to the Ground.

The John D. Carpenter homestead at Carpenter's Point was burned Tuesday morning. It is one of Port Jervis's oldest landmarks. It stood on the State line between New York and New Jersey, at the point where the old ferry crossed the Delaware River and was used by Benjamin Carpenter as a hostelry and store, and was patronized by people throughout that region,

It was owned when burned by Miss Blandina Elting and was occupied as a store and dwelling.

It was a long, low building with a piazza the entire length, and was of little value except for its antiquity and old-time associations.

"OLD FASHIONED" WEATHER.

Notes from a Peddler's Diary on the Weather of Half a Century Ago

A diary found among the effects of W. H. Joles, a peddler who died recently at Oxford, contained the following: "Sept. 28, 1844, snowed two feet, leaves on trees. June 10, 1835, snowed two feet; Dec. 27, 1851, thirty degrees below zero before sunrise, before 9 p.m. raining; April 3, 1858, mosquitoes made their appearance; June 11, 1859, ground frozen; Feb. 3, 1894, found a dandelion in blossom on Paris Hill."

MILLINERY.

We've just received the latest novelties in Fall and Winter Millinery. We guarantee our prices to be as low, if not lower, than any of our competitors.

We want every lady in Middletown and vicinity to visit our Millinery Department, this week, and look through, see the exquisite styles and extremely low prices.

To every purchaser of $1 worth of Millinery we will give, as a souvenir, a Brownie Stick Pin.

Come and look through, whether you buy or not. Respectfully,

A. T. SQUIER,

5 West Main St., Middletown
